

Ideas And Activities For Teaching Geography

Capitals of the United States. Click on a state on a map, name its capital, and find facts about the state and capitol.

Helping Your Child Learn Geography. U.S. Department of Education's activities and ideas for teaching geography.

What Do Maps Show. Contains a poster and four detailed lesson plans for teaching about maps for grades 5-8.

Mapmaker, Mapmaker, Make Me A Map. An online tutorial explaining cartographic terms and how to make a map. .

A World Geography Game. Kids play guessing-world-capitals game where they access more information about the countries of these capitals.

Name That Flag. Enter the contest by emailing your answers with the correct country.

The GeoNet Game:United States. To start the game, click on the "United States" or the "Northeast". All of the questions for each game will be about one country or region. You'll have two hours to complete the game. Click on "End Game" when you're done to see if you have become a GeoAdvisor, a GeoExpert, or a GeoChampion. .

A Color Landform Atlas of United States. Click on a state to find loads of geographical information about it.

U.S. Data Maps. Click on an U.S. map to obtain individual state profiles and statistics.

U.S. Gazetteer. Provides an easy-to-use searchable index for locating any U.S. city.

Virtual Tourist II. Obtain all sorts of useful information about any city or region worldwide that you would like to visit.

European Home Page. Click on a flag to visit an European country. For a tour of some famous European cities, go to "Beautiful Cultural European".

PCL MAP Collection. A large library of electronic maps including 300 U.S. maps.

Armadillo's Resources for Geography. Links to many geographical references around the world.